

The image shows a close-up of a terrazzo floor. The background is a light grey, fine-grained matrix. Scattered throughout are numerous irregularly shaped chips of various stones and minerals. The colors of these chips range from dark grey and black to light grey, white, tan, and brown. Some chips have distinct patterns, such as a dark, wavy, marbled pattern on a larger dark grey chip in the lower right. The overall appearance is a dense, multi-colored aggregate.
