

The image shows a close-up of a terrazzo floor. The surface is composed of a light grey, speckled matrix of binder and fine aggregate. Embedded throughout this matrix are numerous dark, angular chips of basalt. The chips vary in size, with some being quite large and others very small. The overall appearance is a dense, textured pattern of dark spots against a lighter background.

TERRAZZOMANUFATUR
TM5711 Nero Basalt 60
geschliffen